Tupperware created a passion and desire I did not realize I had: To help others. No matter what your goal is, Tupperware improves your self-confidence, gives you income and flexibility to spend time with family, and there's a network of support to help you.

I feel like I'm in a dream being the second qualifier in North America and the first one in Canada for the WOW Mercedes award. I knew that to achieve my goals I needed to do two to three personal parties a week and have weekly Team meetings. With help from many other Tupperware Directors and with training events, I was able to achieve that.

This business has allowed me to put myself and my family as a priority. My husband, two boys and soon to be baby are my "why." They drive me to work hard and have the life I never imagined possible. Being my own boss and setting my own schedule around our ever-changing life with kids has been amazing. Ten years later, I can honestly say this has been the best decision I have made for myself and my family.
